Workshop: Using Critical Language Pedagogy in the EFL Classroom

This workshop is aimed primarily for teachers of high school and university students. In a critical pedagogy classroom, teachers put students on a path toward finding their own voices on complex issues that affect their daily lives. Students trace social inequalities to their root causes, identify how these issues impact their own communities, and advocate for action that ensures a more just, inclusive tomorrow. Many linguists and educators have expanded on this framework to adopt it for the EFL classroom, dubbing it “critical language pedagogy (CLP).” Participants in this session will explore ways to use CLP in their classrooms with a useful scaffolding framework. Through collaborative discussion, participants will brainstorm and think of sample lesson ideas for their own students’ classes.

5PM – KOTESOL Social Event nearby (Brewer's Brothers, Etoh's, Indian, or Galbi - TBA).
