

Position: Assistant Professor of English Education (Non-Tenure-Track, Full-Time)

Salary: KRW 47,640,000/year

Institution: Keimyung University

Location: Daegu, South Korea

Application deadline: September 15, 2022

The Department of English Education in the College of Education at Keimyung University invites applicants for a non-tenure track faculty position for the spring semester of 2023 (beginning on March 1st, 2023; not negotiable).

Keimyung University is a well-established third-level institution in Daegu, South Korea. The university was founded in 1899, and now has in excess of 26,000 domestic students and approximately 800 international students. Keimyung is the 9th largest University in South Korea. Keimyung University also has one of the largest communities of international professors in Korea, with over 100 professors drawn from all over the world.

The department of English Education was established as part of the College of Education in 2008 in response to the growing need to cultivate secondary school English teachers who can effectively teach English through English (TETE). Based on many years of experience in the teaching field and in teacher training programs, the faculty in the department work toward developing highly skilled educators who are creative and innovative, and who can instill in students a sense of ethicality and effectively prepare students for leadership in a highly competitive globalized society.

Course offered by the department that would be taught by the incoming instructor would include: Academic Reading and Reflection; English Composition 1, 2, and 3; English Discussion; Academic Presentation; English Teaching Practices.

We're looking forward to having a talented and enthusiastic instructor who will actively and passionately lead students in advancing their knowledge of English and English language teaching practice.
